Special to the Chronicle.]

CHATTANOOGA, TENN., Sept. 11. The Republican Convention to nominate a candidate for Congress from the Third District, met here to-day. A large delegation was present. Col. N. G. Taylor declined a nomination. Captain Wm. Crutchfield was nominated on first ballot. The vote stood: Crutchfield, of Hamilton, Waters, of Warren, 30.

Great harmony prevailed. The ratification meeting was postpened till to-morrow night on account of rain.

In stand. No interest has been paid on the Democrats got into power. Everything now is burdened with taxes. The revenue collectors are wringing our money from us and sending it to Nashville, and still the State has been paid on the expense of transporting the body that distance, but was overruled by Boyd, who told her that he and others would see to that. He then went out and procured a quantity of charcoal, in which

The cost of public printing has wonderfully increased. I proved to the world while at Nashville that the Public Printing that the Public Printing saying some had patent fastenings, while others were the ordinary kind. ters had defrauded the State out of thousands of dollars. But the Democrats considered stealing a recommendation to office, and these very Pub-lic Printers were re-elected. [The speaker here prominent speech of the evening was made by Col. A. K. McClure.

And thus you will see that by the testimony of Democrats themselves, these Public Printers charge the State three times more than the law authorizes. No wonder the Public Printing since Governor Brown was elected has cost the State over $80,000. The amount paid the Judges has also swelled up to over $150,000. The costs of State Prosecutions amount to over $150,000 a year. The last year of Republican rule, State Prosecutions cost only $135,000. So you see these Democrats either did not bring peace with them and good order, or did not bring honesty, or, what is probably nearer the truth, did not bring either.

From this it is supposed that a pair of his old pants were burned in order to make the description of the buttons play the part in substantiating the dread catastrophe. In this affair is repeated a circumstance that took place several years before the war in Hamilton county, in which a former member of the Legislature, who was also a claim agent, sustained the role that Boyd now does, as is known to many citizens of

On Friday night three men rode rapidly past the residence of Powell Williams, who lives on Connesauga Creek, and from recent develop-ments that gentleman is now of the opinion, we ments that gentleman is now of the opinion, we are told, that these night riders were Boyd and two of his friends. This is further substantiated by the fact that the horse ridden by Boyd, a very fleet animal belonging to Mr. Heiskell, was found running loose near Mouse Creek by Mr. Lowery, with the bridle off and reeking with sweet. Not alone, but

The amount of money involved in the frauds perpetrated by Boyd against the Government exceed $100,000, extending over a term of years. Some of them are of the most barefaced character and succeeded from their very boldness. As an instance we will mention the case of Samuel Elliott, whom Boyd represented as a Subscriptions can be sent in one or two at a time member of Bryson's independent command, killed in a skirmish on Cocoa Creek during the Well Played.

One by one the facts in the case surrounding the strange disappearance of Thomas G. Boyd, of Sweetwater, have been followed, and the truth stripped of the mystery that has hitherto enveloped it as with a veil, is triumphantly shown and the principal actor in the Nefarious Drama, stands before the community in the most unenviable and loathsome attitude. On Monday Elliott walked into the pension office in this city and was astonished to hear of his death. So far from being dead he had never run the risk of being killed in battle, having never been in the army. The case of Mrs. Elizabeth Choate, whose husband was killed at Cumberland Gap, and who was defrauded by Boyd of pay and bounty obtained, the correspondence of which was conducted on her part by a well known gentleman of this city, is another. We could prolong the list indefinitely, but forbear. His last attempt, not two weeks ago came near being successful,
